Holiday Driving May Find Students 'Treed'

Oppermann Gives Views On Safety

By Jim Reeve

"The student is in the driver's seat. We can only warn him of things that may get him into trouble. The rest is up to him."

That is the way Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann summed up the situation of driving regulations and traffic safety on the Wartburg campus.

Oppermann pointed out yesterday that increasing bad road conditions and the approach of the holiday vacation period when thousands of students and other drivers will be on the highways returning to their homes, makes it especially imperative for students to note campus driving regulations.

Many Points Missed

"Although many things concerning the use of automobiles are emphasized in freshmen orientation," the dean pointed out, "the cramped schedule of events during the first week of school caused many of them to be missed."

All student operated cars must be registered in the dean's office and all special state cars in the registrar's office, according to the college ruling.

Convenience in acquiring the issues of automobile owners, for the students own protection, was pointed out as the main reason for all cars to register. This being accomplished, a numbered sticker is placed on the automobile windshield.

Illegal Cars

He emphasized that in the case of an accident occurring when a student does not have his automobile properly registered, the student is the one to be charged with evading the law.

"A student must have proof of bodily injury and property damage liability insurance and have a valid driver's license, as required by Iowa law. Without proper written authorization from parents there is no automobile in the case of students under 21, and the minor cannot be held legally responsible," Oppermann went on to say.

A word to the wise was given advisedly, "Don't let leave the keys in their cars, especially since last month's car theft on campus.

Need Sensitive

Oppermann stated, "We need better organized and correct handling of automobiles."

Oppermann concluded, "I can only hold out suggestions about driving regulations. It's up to them to carry them out."

ALC Convention For Convo Tues.

A discussion of the American Lutheran Church the Lutheran convention and Student Body meeting beat the convocation hours for students.

Tuesday, a panel of three men who attended the ALC convention in Rice Island, Ill., in October will discuss that convention. Members of the panel include Dr. William Schmidt of St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Melvin Backs of the Waverly Children's Home, and the Rev. August Baehr, Sociology Department.

On Thursday the monthly student body and faculty meetings will be held at convocation time.

OUT ON A LIMB because of a crash? Not if safe driving rules are adhered to.

Engelbrecht Acting Head Of College

Herb Engelbrecht, assistant to the president, was named temporary convener of the Wartburg College Administrative Council for the duration of President C. H. Becker's stay at the hospital, where he is recovering from a recent heart attack.

At the council's regular weekly meeting other temporary chairmanships were announced. Dr. John Chellevold was named head of the Appointment and Tenure Committee, and Engelbrecht was appointed to lead the Building Committee.

Other business included discussion of the 1957 summer school session and the newly adopted social dancing plan. Several pending engagements of President Becker's were declined because of his illness, including an engagement as speaker on a panel at the Governor's conference on higher education in Iowa City.

According to Engelbrecht, the president's condition is much improved, and he is resting comfortably.

"President Becker has asked to be remembered to everyone," said Engelbrecht. "He wants especially to thank people for all their cards and letters and most sincerely for all their prayers."

An all-school Christmas party is being sponsored by the junior class in the Little Theater next Saturday evening. Time of the occasion will be posted.

Traditional Christmas stories will be read by Dr. G. J. Neumann, head of the Wartburg English Department, which will be used to enlighten the atmosphere and encourage the Christmas Spirit.

Senate, Administration Seek Agreement On Dance Slate

By Harold Kurtz
Managing Editor

Dancing, yes, but when? That's the question facing student government now. According to Student Body President Don Alt "man's them will be no scheduled dances before next semester.

The college Administrative Council at its meeting Tuesday issued the following statement:

"The implementation of the recent decision of the Board of Regents to permit on campus dancing' was discussed and the following general statement was outlined which should help to clarify the procedures which need to be followed for reasonable and early action.

F-S Consul To Act

"In the absence of President Becker the Administrative Council has agreed to clear the matter through the Faculty-Student Council for the development of a workable policy on on-campus dancing.

"All new organizations or activities which concern all or a large part of the student body must be cleared through this council both as to purpose and scope.

"In keeping with this general organizational procedure the new action permitting dancing will require additional clearance to insure an complete understanding as possible.

Use Committees

"Committees which will be concerned with all or a part of this question include the Student Senate and the Student Activities Committee, the Student Union Council, the Athletic Committee and others concerned with the use of facilities.

At a special Senate meeting Monday night a motion was recommended that all school dances be under the jurisdiction of the Student Activities Committee while organizations should be responsible for their own dances.

Earlier in the evening a recommendation to limit dancing to only allcoshed functions was defeated by an 11-3 margin. Other suggestions presented during the discussion ranged from "Keep them all formal" by junior LaVerne Johnson to a plea for variety in the school social program by Altmann.

Centrally stressed during the meeting was the need to go slow with initiating the program. Reason cited for delay in starting the program included lack of portable weekends and no place to hold the dances.

DANCING HAS PAST, but the present is now the situation facing Student Body President Don Altmann as he prepares to discuss the issue.

Waverly Campaign Close To $80,000; Project At $700

The combined total of three drives being conducted for the Wartburg Development program has reached a mark of $79,626.00.

More than $63,000 has been received in the Waverly campaign, which will end the latter part of December. Those individuals whom the solicitors were unable to see will soon be contacted by means of letters.

Family campaign has reached $15,760.50. This group includes the staff members and Board of Regents as well as the regular faculty.

So far a total of $700 has been received from the Student Body Project, but pledges equaling $2,000 have been made. Funds are to build a carnival sometime during March to come closer to the $6,000 goal.

Bob Matthaeis, chairman of the student drive, said, "Up to this point, I've been satisfied with the cooperation students have given to the Student Body Project. However, I hope that we can come still closer to the goal."

Wreath and pine branches are available and may be obtained by contacting John Beem, senior.

Seminary Hosts To Joint Meeting

A joint meeting of the representatives of Wartburg College and Wartburg Seminary faculties was held yesterday at Dubuque.

Wilmut Fruehling, Psychology Department, presented a paper concerning the training program for Wartburg preseminary students.

The question of the advisability of requiring preseminary students to take more work in preparing their college was also discussed.

I'll Be Home For Christmas?

A few more marks x ed on the last line leaf of the calendar and the college students will flood into the nation's highways in an eager rush to be home for Christmas. Some of these students will never make it home. Unclaimed packages bearing their names will remain under Christmas trees until they are removed by grieving parents.

Some of these victims may be Wartburg students. One of them may be you. You will join a long, monotonous list of traffic victims.

The National Safety Council whose job it is to report these coldly tragic statistics, estimates that nearly one and one-half million of people will be involved in fatal traffic accidents this year. Your chances of survival are somewhat better; but a glance at the national record shows that 38,000 Americans killed each other on our highways last year.

You can increase your chances of claiming your Christmas package by observing a few basic principles:

Weather conditions fluctuate from hour to hour in Iowa — the wide drive operates his vehicle accordingly. The average Wartburgian drives a little more than two hundred miles from Waverly. Frequently a student will attempt to drive for fast, not for safe, travel, so that "road hypnosis" can strike quickly and fatally.

The car clock that totals up your hours of non-stop driving is also marking the increase in your chances of being killed.

Keep your car in good mechanical condition, especially the tires. A study of accidents on the Pennsylvania Turnpike revealed that one of every five fatal accidents could have been avoided if the tires had car hot been in proper mechanical condition.

Show courtesy to everyone, and your chances of survival increase measurably. Unlike gambling, in this game against death you can win often, but you can lose once. —R. S.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

UN Clears Hurdle

By Don Oberdorfer

Now that the world has subsided into an uneasy state of rest, we are at ease to examine the power which was in many ways responsible for letting up tensions. The United Nations, successor to the ill-fated League of Nations, seems to have hurdled the obstacle which proved to be the crippling factor in the League of Nations' struggle for survival.

Some time ago this world war was plunged into "police action" in Korea, which added up to nothing short of actual warfare. The UN was successful in a limited way in proving the reasons for its existence. Since that period, however, much of the action dealing with the state of peace within the world has passed through the hands of this growing organization.

Oberdorfer

The crucial test arose a short time ago when England and France combined their efforts in a drive to oust Egyptian power in the Middle East. Obviously, this was a situation in which the UN must interfere.

This was the same block that placed before the League of Nations, brought downfall. Only if member countries throw their full support behind the organization would she be able to hurdle this obstacle. Action was taken. Demands were presented to the countries involved in the squabble, demands which suggested immediate settlement.

Very little action was taken, however, and the United States proposed a plan of action to the General Assembly. This action by the members of the UN showed that they wanted peace and would throw their arms into the pot to fulfill this goal.

At present the UN army in Egypt remains on active duty. The arms are few and the arms limited. However, member nations of the UN, such as Denmark and Sweden, have shown that they are willing to cooperate to gain peace. Plans are now being made to enlarge this army and equip it at a moment's notice.

The UN has proved that it is vital and living. It has shown that it plans to develop further and become a power which will wield great strength. We all wish to see the world at peace, even if it takes a small power to keep it that way. Therefore, I say to the UN — Vive la UN.

Another week has gone by, and the knight still looks tired standing up there. Quite the opposite condition of the Knights in the Door last Tuesday. Leslie Dix maybe it wasn't the talk it through football season when we kept yelling, "Just wait until basketball season."

One of the saga contributors to this column, my roommate, has decided to transfer. He is a rather looking roommate. That isn't fair — after all, she doesn't have to shave. Seems to be habit forming, life will make the third roommate I've had who has been the way of all flesh and got married. Anyway, previously, all three people had names starting with "B" — Blake, Bertrand and Bluhm.

Don't worry, (Bluhmian), you can probably make it without my help.

Everyday, I realize just a little bit more how liberal Wartburg College really is. Give a look-see at part of the 11-point regulations for operation of an S.U.B. Grill:

First of all, only a senior is allowed to operate an automobile. This is only after securing permission from the dean of men or dean of women, a parent's permit, approval of the business office and, finally, permission from a special car committee.

He must be in good standing, financially and academically and each time the student receives a revoke parking fine, he gets a five-buck fine from the college. After four fines he loses his permit and has to take his car home.

Here's one that I still can't figure. Wisconsin is the only college or university, so far as I know, that allows beer to be sold in its union; yet Wisconsin has recently passed an edict against goodnight kisses at the dormitory door.

Maybe the passing of the dancing lasso on campus has given rise that lesser "problem" of the dormitory door. Why did it too cold to be even thinking about walking shorts

Once again we come to the Wartburg Trumpet blood and guts series on safe driving. So boy editor Cy Walnuett runs out and smashes up his Ford. Two note. Fred Gerdermann, wherever you are.

My reasons for seeing that you stay out of nasty old car wrecks are strictly selfish. Dead people can't read Knight Beat.

Today Here Only Once

By Dr. G. J. Neumann

Today comes only once, and never again returns," wrote a well-known German philosopher. This truth is nothing new, but since it is a truth that concerns everyone's well-being, it behooves us to act accordingly.

I am not thinking primarily of students who read that line and thus may be had for study over a period of two weeks to no more at their disposal during test week. I am thinking rather of the tendency of people, more generally to make light of today as only one of a long series of todays, a series which to the young is likely to appear practically endless.

Neumann

But every single today is of individual worth, for every single today we are laying one stone of the foundation of our House of Life. The foundation which rests upon the earth but will support a superstructure rising above the stars into God's and our eternity. Even now, these 24 hours, we are laying one stone of that foundation. Is it a hard, solid stone or a soft, rotted one? Is it well squared or amorphous?

Let us look back over a week's work, a month's, a year's, our whole past life's. Have we been doing a workmanlike job? Will the foundation support the superstructure? Will it stand forever?

The great scientist Newton, a firm Christian, once wrote, "Do as well as you can today, and perhaps tomorrow you may be able to do better." May God so grace us.

Knights Hit Road For Cornell Clash

By Duane Boehmke

Knight hoopsters, fresh from an 80-66 win over Augsburg here Tuesday, go on the road for the first time this season as they move against a potent Cornell Rifle team at Mount Vernon tonight.

The Rams will be bolstered by five returning letter men, topping the list is Merle Gabur, all-conference selection last season who scored 405 points at a .500 percentage clip. Rounding out the starting squad will be forward Wallace DeWoody, guards Ron Stacy and Bob Keck and center Leon Smith.

Five Veterans Listed

Even with five returning veterans, Cornell coach Gil Wilson still manages some pessimism.

"In order to be a title-contender," he commented, "we will need to be lucky and not lose any of our key men by injuries or fouls in the crucial games. Our squad will be only average in height but will have good speed."

The Rams, who lost to the Knights, 79-74, in 1951 in the only previous meeting, will be out to avenge that loss. Cornell's starters will be helped out by some strong reserves from last year's unbeaten freshman squad.

Wartburg mentor Ax Bundgaard, looking for some rebounding power, brought freshman Leon Schaale up to the varsity squad this week. Schaale has looked good in scrimmages and in Tuesday's B squad game and will replace Jim Johnson.

Tuecke Still Out

Tuecke injured a knee in the pre-game warmup Tuesday and is not expected to return to practice until after Christmas vacation.

Lorna College will field a veteran squad when it plays host to Wartburg Tuesday.

Duhawk coach Vince Dowd for once does not have a height problem. His main worry is how to pick the best quintet from a tight field of a dozen or more contenders.

Freshman surprise John Fraser has proven a real find for the Duhawks, collecting 18 and 8 points in his first two college games. Fraser (6'3") will be bolstered by veterans Fer Ottevi (5'9"), Fred May (6'3"), Dick Wright (6'2") and Cy Potts (6'1").

Axmen Take First Game

By Wilbur Flachman

Coach Ax Bundgaard punched the proper key and got his Wartburg Knights basketball team off on the right tuce, as they romped to an 80-66 win over Augsburg Tuesday night in the season opener.

Wartburg was never headed and fired at a 33 per cent clip during the initial half, while the Auggies would only manage 31 per cent.

The Auggies shot an even 50 per cent in the final half and ended up shooting a game total of 42 per cent, while Wartburg carried 37 per cent for its entire night's work. The Knights, however, fired in 24 free throws to 12 gift tallies for Augsburg. Wartburg grabbed 44 rebounds from off the boards, of which exactly half were plucked off by John Adix.

Wartburg Freshmen rocked up their first win of the season in convincing fashion, as they downed the Wartburg seniliary team 69-51 in the opening game of the evening.

Conference Makes Two Rule Changes

Two new rule changes were adopted when Iowa Conference officials met at Cedar Rapids last week. One rule makes the basketball timer a regular game official. The other permits a student to transfer to a foreign school and return without losing athletic eligibility.

Dr. Elmer Hertel, head of Wartburg's Biology Department, was re-elected conference secretary-treasurer. George Reynolds, Buena Vista, was named president, and Morey Eby was again named commissioner.

'Net Serve,' Netsters In IM Action

Feature attraction of the intramural program this week, is the IM ping-pong tourney in the student union. The first round is now near completion. Also on the agenda for next week's program is the opening round in the basketball league.

Bomhoff

The IM cagers are rapidly sharpening up their eyes for the tight race ahead, and two complete leagues have been formed in to Bill Bomhoff, intramural chairman, who is now completing the schedule for the league.

In Wednesday night bowling action, first-place Ritchie Pro has whipped Koblicka Hilltop, 3-1. Carver's Restaurant bested Liebau's Barber Shop 4-0, while last-place Creek-O-Diner took a 3-1 decision from the faculty team. Meyer Drug split with the Top Hat Cleaners, 2-2.

Top individual series for the evening was rolled by Ron Baker, a 580, while Art Marghein took second honors with 576. John Cherek fired the high game, a 204, with Marghein turning in 202. The high team series, 3,713, went to Meyer Drug.
